

This week's spelling is again for words that end in one vowel then one consonant, the final consonant is usually doubled before a suffix beginning with a vowel if the last syllable is stressed.

Practice writing in a sentence with your neatest joint up handwriting. On the next page there are more examples.

Words	Practice 1	Practice 2	Practice 3 hardened

Last syllable before suffix is stressed

forgetting      transmitter permitted      Committing beginner      admitted regretted      upsetting

(Many of these can have other suffixes beginning with vowels.)

Last syllable before suffix is NOT stressed

benefiting      deposited darkened      visited happened      deepening limiting      hardened

suffixes beginning with vowels.)*

Exceptions

Some words do not follow the rule:

travelled cancelled labelled

For words ending in 'c', add a 'k' to keep the 'hard' 'k' sound at the end of the root word.

picnicked
trafficking
panicked
