

The 'shun' sound at the end of a word is can be spelt 'tion', 'sion', 'cian' or 'ssion'. 'cian' is often for occupations (jobs).

'ssion' is often used if the root word ends in 'ss' , 'mit' or 'cede' / 'ceed'.

Practice writing in a sentence with your neatest joint up handwriting. On the next page there are more examples.

Words	Practice 1	Practice 2	Practice 3 electrician
mission
passion
optician
magician
session
submission
permission
Also practice these two Year 3 common exception words:
certain
circle

- cian

musician      optician
electrician    technician magician      dietician politician     beautician clinician      physician mathematician

- ssion

mission      discussion session      confession passion      obsession
impression   aggression permission   commission expression   transmission profession

Hint

The word 'mission' is particularly useful to learn as it can be combined with many prefixes to make new words.

permission
emission
omission
submission
admission
transmission