

What is taught when in phonics

At Church Lane, we understand that children progress at different rates in their phonics ability. Therefore, staff will regularly assess their recognition of graphemes and their ability to segment and blend, and group the children accordingly. This ensures that each child is working within a group, where the teacher can target the learning to their needs and phonic phase. Children with SEND will be taught to meet their own targets, with planning done separately to the rest of the cohort where appropriate. Below is a suggested timetable of teaching, however we are aware that groups will progress in different ways.
