

You should have chosen your 5 subheadings yesterday, so now you need to plan - brief notes on each - most of them should require no research as they should be subheadings you are confident with, but give yourself some time now to research the ones you will struggle with detail for.

Your plan might look like this with key information underneath each subheading

Please think about your presentation - nothing as boring as this one!

It's a big chance to be creative with your presentation

Once you've completed your research and planning write your introduction and 1st subheading.

Your introduction should be pretty short (3 sentences) and should just explain what I will read about - why is it important, you may want to add a rhetorical question.....

Then write your 1st subheading - remember to include facts, detail and interesting information.

The focus of a non-chronological report is to inform, so make sure yours would teach a newcomer to the topic about it.
