

Learning Objective

To write a diary entry.

I will be successful if...

- I understand the key features of a diary entry.
- I can include sentence types that we have explored this week, including 'if, if, if, then' sentences.
- To write a diary entry, including some of the key features that we have discussed and explored.

Page 9

Arthur and the Golden Rope

You will be writing your diary entry the day following this picture.

freezing

frustrated

anxious isolated

terrified

nervous

fearless

worried

excited

petrified

shy

devastated

That night, Arthur lay wide awake, the harsh words of the townsfolk running through his head. Maybe he was a meddler and had led the wolf straight to the town?

Page 10

Modelled Diary Entry from Arthur

Using the checklists provided, which colours relate to which key diary entry features?

2nd March 1902

Dear Diary,

Last night, I didn't sleep a wink. I was so anxious and overwhelmed, it was like my head wouldn't stop spinning. If I was stronger, if I was faster, if I was more courageous, then I wouldn't have to travel to the Land of Gods to save the whole village.

As I woke up this morning, I still couldn't get the thought of travelling tomorrow out of my head. I love travelling more than anybody, but this is different... the whole village depends on me. Do they not realise that I am only a boy?

I have spent today packing my belongings. I couldn't risk taking everything, so I have only packed my most important possessions (my bird feather, magical stick and 'Hand of Time').

I am setting off from the harbour early in the morning, so I need to catch some sleep. I will keep you updated on my journey.

Speak soon,

Arthur

Modelled Diary Entry from Arthur

You can use this diary entry for inspiration,
BUT you must put your own spin on it!

2nd March 1902

Dear Diary,

Last night, I didn't sleep a wink. I was so anxious and overwhelmed, it was like my head wouldn't stop spinning. If I was stronger, if I was faster, if I was more courageous, then I wouldn't have to travel to the Land of Gods to save the whole village.

As I woke up this morning, I still couldn't get the thought of travelling tomorrow out of my head. I love travelling more than anybody, but this is different... the whole village depends on me. Do they not realise that I am only a boy?

I have spent today packing my belongings. I couldn't risk taking everything, so I have only packed my most important possessions (my bird feather, magical stick and 'Hand of Time').

I am setting off from the harbour early in the morning, so I need to catch some sleep. I will keep you updated on my journey.

Speak soon,

Arthur

Now, it is your turn...

It is time for you to write your diary entry as Arthur.

2nd March 1902

Remember that you are writing an entry in the build-up to Arthur's travel.

Use your plans, checklists, models, classroom resources and previous learning to help you.

Dear Diary,

Last night, I didn't sleep a wink. I was so anxious and overwhelmed, it was like my head wouldn't stop spinning. If I was stronger, if I was faster, if I was more courageous, then I wouldn't have to travel to the Land of Gods to save the whole village.

As I woke up this morning, I still couldn't get the thought of travelling tomorrow out of my head. I love travelling more than anybody, but this is different... the whole village depends on me. Do they not realise that I am only a boy?

I have spent today packing my belongings. I couldn't risk taking everything, so I have only packed my most important possessions (my bird feather, magical stick and 'Hand of Time').

I am setting off from the harbour early in the morning, so I need to catch some sleep. I will keep you updated on my journey.

Speak soon,

Arthur

