

Pre-Teach Words

diary (n.) - a written log of personal events that have happened.

emotions (n.) - a person's thoughts or feelings

personal (adj.) - something that belongs to somebody venture (v.) - to travel or go on an adventure

Learning Objective

To write a diary entry.

I will be successful if...

- I understand the key features of a diary entry.
- I can include sentence types that we have explored this week, including 'if, if, if, then sentences.
- To write a diary entry, including some of the key features that we have discussed and explored.

When will our diary entry take place?

We are writing our diary entry the day following this picture.

That night, Arthur lay wide awake, the harsh words of the townsfolk running through his head. Maybe he was a meddler and had led the wolf straight to the town?

Modelled Diary Entry from Arthur

Using the checklists provided, which colours relate to which key diary entry features?

2nd March 1902

Dear Diary,

Last night, I didn't sleep a wink. I was so anxious and overwhelmed, it was like my head wouldn't stop spinning. If I was stronger, if I was faster, if I was more courageous, then I wouldn't have to travel to the Land of Gods to save the whole village.

As I woke up this morning, I still couldn't get the thought of travelling tomorrow out of my head. I love travelling more than anybody, but this is different... the whole village depends on me. Do they not realise that I am only a boy?

I have spent today packing my belongings. I couldn't risk taking everything, so I have only packed my most important possessions (my bird feather, magical stick and 'Hand of Time').

I am setting off from the harbour early in the morning, so I need to catch some sleep. I will keep you updated on my journey.

Speak soon,

Arthur

Modelled Diary Entry from Arthur

You can use this diary entry for inspiration. You can follow the same structure and sentence types, BUT you must put your own spin on it!

2nd March 1902

Dear Diary,

Last night, I didn't sleep a wink. I was so anxious and overwhelmed, it was like my head wouldn't stop spinning. If I was stronger, if I was faster, if I was more courageous, then I wouldn't have to travel to the Land of Gods to save the whole village.

As I woke up this morning, I still couldn't get the thought of travelling tomorrow out of my head. I love travelling more than anybody, but this is different... the whole village depends on me. Do they not realise that I am only a boy?

I have spent today packing my belongings. I couldn't risk taking everything, so I have only packed my most important possessions (my bird feather, magical stick and 'Hand of Time').

I am setting off from the harbour early in the morning, so I need to catch some sleep. I will keep you updated on my journey.

Speak soon,

Arthur