

The value of CARING

#

Jake thinks that caring is a way of helping people both physically and mentally. By asking how somebody feels or if they need help, you show care for others.

Aman incorporates the value of caring into everything he does at Zouch from learning to playtime. He also feels that the teachers and TAs use the value of caring every day and they look after everyone and do their best to keep us all safe.